It's not always in a man's nature to sit and talk about feelings when he's more inclined to do something about them instead. Whenever you tell dad a problem, he starts giving you solutions. You may not always take his advice, but you certainly appreciate the effort he makes to solve your problems. Show your dad you still care by taking him out for some quality bonding time. Here are some of the best activities to do with dad in Los Angeles in honor of Father's Day.

Golfing

Another great way to spend quality time with dad is through a round of golf at the award-winning, nine-hole, par-three golf course known as The Links at Terranea. Whether dad is new to golf or an avid golfer, the ocean views along the Palos Verdes Peninsula will take his breath away. After a day at the course, treat dad like a king with a manly day spa treatment that includes a 60-minute massage and a 60-minute facial paired with a relaxing foot massage.
