Hotel Gift Shops

Replacing incidentals is not the order of business at these spots, which are part gallery, part boutique, and all about fine living BY KARI MOZENA

THE USUAL SETUP, geared to the forgetful guest, is a closet with a few sundries such as toothpaste and razors—along with a generic item or two that could travel home as a souvenir. But a handful of L.A. hotels have elevated their gift shops to store-size spaces offering apparel, jewelry, and accessories that exemplify the city's highest style. Check into these locations for a shopping trip as memorable as a deluxe suite stay.

Sex Appeal

The gift emporium at the SLS HOTEL AT BEVERLY HILLS (310-247-0400 or slshotels.com) is an open affair with arty wares displayed under glass—everything from designer Piero Fornasetti tables and chairs to Kiki de Montparnasse sleep masks that indicate whether you'd like to do that or something naughtier. You'll also find animal skin lighters (stingray, shark, snake).

D.L. & Co. plates emblazoned with the Seven Deadly Sins, and life-size bicycles in gold. The shelves hold Assouline coffee-table books and nonstick tape "for the restraining arts," to be practiced before calling it a night.

Coastal Airs

The shops at the TERRANEA RESORT (310-265-2800 or terranea.com) aren't just for tourists—Palos Verdes locals come here for high-end gifts. Pointe Discovery has outdoorsy accessories such as backpacks with pictures of endangered species, hiking gear, and James Perse sportswear. The Marea boutique spreads across three rooms filled with jewelry, DVF leather flip-flops, swimsuits for all ages, and Alice+Olivia dresses. The Spa at Terranea shop carries a host of aromatherapy lotions and perfume solids, Michael Star hats, Zen poetry books, and T-shirts that wish you NAMASTE.
