1. Explore the Terranea Resort

For an exotic locale that doesn't require leaving the U.S., head to Terranea Resort in Rancho Palos Verdes, California. From hiking and aquatic sports to bird watching and seaside cycling, the property offers activities for honeymooners who crave adventure. The best part? You won't have to leave the resort to experience any of it. Couples can also book a kayorkling excursion, which allows them to check out the Catalina Channel's reefs from above and below the water. Naturalists guide honeymooners to the reserve by kayak before they dive in to witness dolphins, sea lions, leopard sharks, and exotic fish. And if you're still searching for some pampering, book a private beachside bungalow, which comes with a 24-hour concierge that helps with any last-minute Champagne requests.
